JACKSON, Miss. – November 3, 2025 – Several members of the Public Relations Association of Mississippi (PRAM) Central Chapter were awarded for their outstanding work at this year's 2025 Lantern Awards held during the Southern Public Relations Federation Conference Oct. 19-21, in Bossier City, Louisiana.

The Lantern Awards program recognizes excellence in strategic communications, honoring projects that exemplify creativity, innovation and impactful results. This year's awards showcased the best in public relations, with entries judged by industry experts with a focus on the four-step RPIE process: research, planning, implementation and evaluation.

Awards were presented in three tiers — long-term strategic programs, short-term strategic programs and tactical materials — across more than 30 categories. Entries received one of three award designations: Certificate of Merit, Award of Excellence or Lantern Award — with Lantern Award being the highest honor. The highest-rated submission in each tier was selected as Best of Tier, and Best of Show was awarded to the overall top-scoring entry.

PRAM Central members received the following awards:

Best of Show

The highest honor of the evening, the "Best of Show" award, was presented to "The Weekly Seed: Green Oak's Employee Newsletter," created by Kalli Hedgepath. This project stood out among all entries for its exceptional creativity, strategic impact and measurable results. "The Weekly Seed" not only earned the top score in its category but also demonstrated the power of effective internal communications to engage and inspire employees.
